WALLINGFORD in Motion Pictures

You unquestionably will read tomorrow in this paper the first of the New Adventures of Wallingford. You have never come across anything more rollicking, more joyful and full of the spice of modern life!

Well, all that you will read has come to life. All that you will see has sprung into being.—Wallingford, Blackie Daw, Violet and Onion exist for you. They are coming to your theatre,—they are on the block from you. They are going to enact all that you will read and they are going to make you actually see all that you have seen in your imagination. Pathe has made the pictures and this serial is the successor to the "Exploits of Elaine" which you have loved and followed so long.

Charles W. Goddard, the dramatic author of the "Exploits of Elaine" has made these new motion pictures right from Chester's stories.

But, who is to play Wallingford and who is to play Blackie Daw? This you must be thinking with much concern. There was only one man in all America who could play Wallingford and that is Burr McIntosh. It was Mr. McIntosh who Mr. Chester has always believed was the one man to bring Wallingford to life. There was no other man in the world who could so well handle Blackie Daw as Max Figman—so both of them have been procured and appear in this cast.

Playing Violet is Lolita Robertson, probably one of the most sincere actresses of the day who has so far entered motion pictures. Under the direction of the Wharton Bros., who directed "Elaine," the Wallingford series is assured of an artistic success.

With the Pathe name on the film there will be no question of the perfect picturizing. With the PATHE distributing the pictures, you may be sure that you will see them near you.
